

Sci-Fi Booklist for Teen SRC

Among the Free: a Shadow Children Book

By Margaret Peterson Haddix

Another great read in the Shadow Children series. When thirteen-year-old Luke Garner unwittingly sets off a rebellion which sweeps the country and ousts the Population Police from power, he quickly realizes that the new regime is corrupt and he may hold the only key to true freedom.

Specials

By Scott Westerfeld

No longer an Ugly or a Pretty, Tally is now Special. She can see better, hear better, fight better, and feels more alive than ever before. But Zane is brain damaged from the nanos that were in the pills they took together, and Tally is determined to help him become Special too...no matter what it takes. The final volume of the trilogy.

Maximum Ride – School's Out Forever

By James Patterson

Max and the other genetically altered birdkids are still on the run from the wolf-like Erasers but get an R&R break at the home of a sympathetic FBI agent who actually sends them - to school! Max knows they should get out of there, but hey, the food is good and there's this guy who asked her out on a date....

Sharp North

by Philip Cave

In a futuristic world, Great Families rule Britain through a caste system where reproduction is seriously restricted, while the families keep illegal clones or "spares" of themselves. A quick paced thriller for people who liked Nancy Farmer's House of the Scorpion.

Aquanauts

By John Lunn

Deep sea research, time travel, and mad scientists. This starts slowly but builds speed quickly and is entertaining and thought provoking.

47

by Walter Mosley

Both historical fiction and science fiction, this follows an American slave in the 1800's and his introduction to time travel, shape-shifting, and intergalactic conflict.

Singer in the snow
By Louise Marley

In a land where the sun shines only once every five years, two gifted young Singers are sent to a remote outpost where they struggle to refine their abilities to create heat and light using their psi energy. Set in the same unforgiving ice world as the Singers of Nevya, world is science fiction and fantasy elements blend into a suspenseful and, at times, gritty tale.

Destiny of Linus Hoppe
By Anne-Laure Bondoux ; translated from the French by Catherine Temerson
In a future Paris, Linus lives with his family in the Protected Zone among society's elite--those who at the age of 14 were tested by the Great Processor and found worthy of existence at the highest level of comfort and security. For fans of the Shadow Children by Margaret Peterson Haddix. p.s. and there's a sequel if you like this one.

Siberia: a novel
Ann Halam

In a bitterly cold climate-changed Siberia, hunger and fear accompany Sloe on her quest to preserve the genetic code of extinct animals and to find a safe haven. A sequel to Dr. Franklin's Island.

Goodness gene, The
by Sonia Levitin

In the year 2305, as son of the Compassionate Director of the Dominion of the Americas, Will, along with his twin brother Berk, has been groomed for leadership in a society that values genetic fitness. If you want to think about Rebellion anarchy, cloning, euthanasia, gender selection, environmental destruction, artificial foods, and machines that tend to human needs for love, sex, and affection – this is the book for you!

Variable star
Robert A. Heinlein and Spider Robinson

Two young lovers are forced apart by pride, power, and the immensity of interstellar time and space, in an authorized version of an unfinished novel by Hugo Award-winning late science fiction master Robert Heinlein.

Raintree rebellion
By Janet McNaughton

In this sequel to the Secret Under My Skin, Blake returns to the city of her birth as one of the heroes that brought down the government of the Technocaust. While there, Blake submits the ID code from the microchip that was implanted in her arm by her parents in infancy, hoping to find her father. And when she does, that's when things get really interesting.

Shadow of the Giant
By Orson Scott Card

One of the brilliant tales in the Ender's Game saga – if you like one, read them all!

Evil Genius
By Catherine Jinks

In a school that teaches kids how to do as many evil acts as they can manage in order to contribute to World Domination, Cadel is trapped in a world of manipulation and deception. And he wants out.

Life as We Knew It
By Susan Beth Pfeffer

Through journal entries sixteen-year-old Miranda describes her family's struggle to survive after a meteor hits the moon, causing worldwide tsunamis, earthquakes, and volcanic eruptions.

Noughts and Crosses
By Malorie Blackman

In a world where the pale-skinned Noughts are discriminated against by the politically and socially powerful dark-skinned Crosses, privileged black Sephy, a Cross, and servant class white Callum, a Nought, test whether their love is strong enough to survive their society's racism. If you like this one, there are sequels.